Apollo Astronauts Prove 'Spider' Ready For Moon

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 9 astronauts, aroused from an extended rest period, sped into the holiday half of their mission today after proving their fragile moonship ready for an American moon landing this summer.

"The mission has exceeded even our most optimistic expectations," said Lt. Gen. Sam C. Phillips, Apollo program director.

Space officials discussed the possibility of advancing the date for a moon landing but said in all likelihood the July target of Apollo 11 would be retained.

"They're headed to the world up there," a flight spokesman said before awakening the weary crew, Air Force Col. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart.

"Good morning, Apollo 9," mission control radioed at 7:30 a.m. EST three hours later than the scheduled wake-up time.

Awaken Scott

At one point during the night, Scott was awakened to check some switches, but apparently drifted back to sleep without disturbing his shipmates.

"Pretty smoothly," sorry you had to be awakened," ground controllers answered.

With their primary goals achieved, the astronauts fasted on Canadian bacon, corn flakes, brownies and fruit drinks, then resumed their duties at a more leisurely pace.

Thursday Splashdown
The Apollo 9 is scheduled to splashdown in the Atlantic at 9:45 a.m. Thursday.

The most important item on the Apollo agenda today was firing of the main engine to improve the re-entry position, providing an emergency route in case the main engine should fail.

The critical rendezvous and docking maneuver successfully executed, ground controllers told the crew Friday to cut down the vigorous pace and take a break.

"Man," quipped Schweickart, "when I take a break I'm going to bed for three days. Houston, did you get that?"

"We concur," mission control responded. "Three days off."

"Is that Saturday and Sunday and Christmas?" interrupted McDivitt.

113 Miles Apart

The Apollo 9 astronauts removed the last obstacle to a moon landing when they qualified the final piece of hardware, the untested lunar module (LEM) that will ferry men to the lunar surface.

Sweeping through space at 17,500 miles per hour, the two Apollo vehicles, coded Spider and Gundrop, broke from their nose-to-nose line-up for the first time.

McDivitt and Schweickart took the spidery moonship 113 miles from the command module, then tracked it down again during a six-hour rendezvous that simulated the maneuvers required to return men from the moon to a command module that will remain in moon orbit.

Pieces Of Junk

Maneuvering to within a few feet, McDivitt, using a gun-sight-like device, approached the docking target on the command ship.

Failing the first time, he reversed the moonship and tried again.

As a whining sound signaled a successful contact, McDivitt exclaimed, "Wow! I haven't heard a sound like that in a long time."

After McDivitt and Schweickart got back inside the command ship, a signal from the ground kicked the LEM 4,000 miles into space. It is now a $41 million piece of junk.

In assessing the flight of Apollo 9, Phillips said, "At this point ... we have accomplished all the primary objectives for which this mission was designed."

In fact, 97 per cent of all the Apollo 9 objectives have been completed. But officials said time in space is valuable, so they want to keep the crew in the air for the duration.

On Labor Board

Perry, 37, of Detroit served as an attorney for the National Labor Relations Board before joining Chrysler Corp. in 1963. A former All-America football player at the University of Michigan, Perry played and coached with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League.

A college spokesman said "he knew of no past black board member."

Respected

"I understand he's been making statements that he couldn't even find a classroom instructor or a dormitory mother who is black—and the governor comes up with an outstanding black for membership on the board," Young said.

In announcing Perry's appointment, the governor said:

"We have a highly sensitive situation at Ferris State College. We are fortunate that a highly talented and respected man has agreed to serve on the college's governing board.

"At Ferris, as at so many of our other schools, we need to insure that there is good communication between students and campus authorities. This is a continuing concern for me, and I know it will be for me, Perry other members of the board and the president."

Negro Appointed To Ferris Board

LANSING (AP) — In the wake of the racial strife on the campus, Gov. William Milliken Friday named Lowell W. Perry — A Negro — to the Ferris State College Board of Control.

Perry was appointed for a term expiring Dec. 31, 1968, filling a vacancy created by the death last year of board member Raymond Starr.

Milliken announced the appointment, which is subject to Senate confirmation, as some Negro legislators outlined plans to demand the dismissal of Ferris President Victor Spethel.

Sen. Coleman Young, D-Detroit, one of two Negro senators who huddled with Milliken over the college problems, praised the governor's action. But he said, the appointment "just underlines Spethel's inadequacies."

Man Is Freed After Conviction

GRAHAM, N.C. (AP) — A man has been freed of an involuntary manslaughter charge in a traffic death although the jury had voted unanimously to convict him. The foreman, asked by the judge how the jury had found, replied: "Not guilty." But later the judge polled each juror and discovered they had voted for conviction. "I was nervous and confused on the name of the defendant," said the foreman. The prosecutor said, "There is nothing we can do; state law makes it clear that the foreman speaks for the jury."

Sentinal Advocates Fight For Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Advocates of the embattled Sentinel defense system are urging President Nixon to pull back from the full program by reducing the number of missile sites from 20 to a half dozen.

Word of the plea for compromise came Friday as critics of the antiballistic missile (ABM) system made an 11th hour bid in the Senate to get the President to scrap the $5-billion program altogether.

Nixon has said he will announce a decision the first of next week. ABM deployment was halted for review several weeks ago amid rising public and senatorial criticism.

There have been indications the administration already plans to try a compromise by moving the nuclear-tipped missiles away from populated sites.

Sen. Milton R. Young, R-N.D., told an interviewer that he had urged the scaled down version of the Sentinel when Nixon met with GOP congressional leaders Thursday night at the White House.

Young said he told the President a "prototype would be easier" to sell to Congress where opposition centers on fear ABM costs could run into many billions with no guarantee the system would work.

Young and others who attended the White House session said Nixon merely listened and gave no indication of what his decision will be.

A group of senators suggested a similar scaling-down to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird before he left for Vietnam Wednesday.

Senate attacks on the ABM were contained in speeches and in a report by the Foreign Relations Committee accompanying its recommendation that the nuclear nonproliferation treaty be ratified.

The committee called formally for delay in deployment of any new weapons systems until the administration "has had time to make an earnest effort to pursue meaningful discussions with the Soviet Union."

The report is advisory, and ratification of the treaty would not necessarily influence the administration's ABM policy.

Some critics contend that deploying Sentinel would violate the spirit of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, which comes up for formal debate Monday. One section requires nuclear powers to embark at an early date on negotiations to halt the nuclear arms race.

Each Side Lost One Craft In Resulting Battle

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian jets dueled over the Sinai Desert today and each side claimed shooting down one of the other's planes.

An Israeli army spokesman said four Egyptian MiGs entered Israeli air space at 11:20 a.m. near the Bitter Lakes area and were immediately intercepted by Israeli planes.

He said one Egyptian MIG was shot down in the ensuing dog fight and the pilot was wounded but bailed out safely. He said the pilot was captured by Israeli ground forces and taken to a hospital, while all Israeli planes returned safely to base.

An Egyptian military spokesman acknowledged over Cairo Radio that a MIG was shot down, but said an Israeli Mirage fighter also was shot down and was seen crashing in the desert east of the Suez Canal.

Training Flight

The Egyptian spokesman claimed the four Arab jets were on "training flight" when they were attacked by eight Israeli Mirages.

It was the first aerial dog fight between Israelis and Arab jets since the Israelis said they shot down a Syrian MIG Feb. 12. It was the first dog fight involving Egyptian aircraft since last Oct. 23, when Israel claimed it blocked an intrusion by Egyptian MIGs over the Suez Canal.

Negro students at Antioch said it would be "a cruel joke" if the 1964 Civil Rights Act were used to destroy their program, which began with the support of white students and Antioch's faculty.

Negro students have been demanding their own programs and facilities for the past two academic years, and have turned with increasing frequency to protest demonstrations when their demands were refused.

Nonetheless, said HEW, so far as it knows Antioch is the only college with a black studies program that excludes whites. The department said "two or three" universities had met the demands of Negro students for separate dormitories even though an HEW ruling last spring blocked Northwestern University from sanctioning such an all-black facility.

It was the second Israeli warning to Cairo this week.

In London, the British Foreign Office announced the arrival of Dr. Mahmoud Fawzi as a personal envoy of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Fawzi is to confer with Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other British leaders.

The British hope the talks will cover all aspects of London-Cairo relations, but have been warned that Fawzi would seek explanation of reports that Britain is negotiating an arms sale to Israel since late 1968.

In other Middle East developments, the Beirut newspaper Al Nahar reported Syria is expected to make an about-face and accept the U.N. resolution on a Middle East settlement as a result of the power struggle underway in Damascus.

Baaghdad Radio announced Friday the acquittal by a revolutionary court of four Moslems—two Iraqis and two Iranians—charged with spying for Israel. Iraq has been trying persons accused of spying for two months and has executed 22 of them.

Weapons Deal

British ministers have declined to confirm or deny the right to deal while reserving the right to sell weapons to all comers. But qualified sources said the British have been discussing the possible sale of Chieftain tanks to Israel since late 1968.

Nixon To Rest In Florida Sun

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon says he'll spend the weekend resting in the Florida sun—and studying antiballistic missiles.

Nixon's first mission in flying from Washington to his Key Biscayne compound Friday night was to catch up on some of the rest that eluded him during 10,500 miles of travel through five European countries in eight days.

However, the chief executive told newsmen aboard his plane for the flight to Florida that "I'm studying the ABM this weekend."

He reported bringing with him a full briefcase—"but not as full as I took to Europe" on the trip that ended Sunday.

At his evening news conference Tuesday—the first ever broadcast live by television and radio in prime time—Nixon promised to announce a decision next week on whether to go ahead with deployment of a "thin" shield of controversial antiballistic missiles.

Milliken Under Fire For Bond Money Split

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William G. Milliken came under heavy fire Friday, hours after he urged the Legislature to spend more than half of the $100 million recreation bond issue in urban areas.

"More than a year ago we developed a program calling for a division of the $100 million with $70 million for state recreation projects and $30 million in grants to local governments to help finance local recreation projects," said Ralph A. MacMillan, director of the Natural Resources Department.

Implied Consent Impact:

Drunk Driving Arrests Show Sharp Increase

Enforcement of Michigan's drunk driving law — largely through use of the breathalyzer — has resulted in a sharp increase in the number of arrests for drunk driving, both on the local and state levels.

The law requires that a person suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol submit to a breath or chemical test to determine the amount of alcohol in his blood or face automatic suspension of his driver's license.

In the Delta County area, drunk driving arrests more than doubled in 1968, jumping to 57 compared to only 25 in 1967, according to information from Escanaba and Gladstone police. State Police of the Gladstone Post and the Delta County Sheriff's Dept.

Escanaba police made 24 arrests last year, compared to only five in 1967. Gladstone police arrests for drunk driving went from four to 10 and State Police reported 23 arrests in 1968 compared to 14 the year before. Sheriff's officers made two arrests in 1967, but none last year.

Statewide, 17,685 persons were arrested last year for drunk driving compared to slightly more than 3,000 in 1967. State Police and the Highway Traffic Safety Center at Michigan State University report.

Scientific Support
The police attribute this to law enforcement officers' increased willingness to make arrests in confidence that they will have scientific support for their previous "subjective" decisions," according to a traffic safety bulletin published in Lansing.

Police in Delta County agreed and also pointed out that the breathalyzer is quick and simple compared to the problems encountered in giving a suspect a chemical blood test.

Lions To Join Youth Exchange

The Escanaba Lions Club will participate in an international youth exchange program this summer by sending an Escanaba student for a three week stay in Europe.

In return, a foreign student will arrive here for an exchange visit.

Although final plans are incomplete at present, it was announced today by Lions President Fred Saykl that the Escanaba student will leave about the end of July and that Switzerland is the club's first choice as the country of destination.

The student chosen will be a high school junior or senior or a college student who will not be over 21 as of Aug. 1, 1969. Applications will be available to students next month after final arrangements for the trip are complete. All expenses will be paid by the Escanaba Lions Club.

than 90 per cent of those arrested for drunk driving are convicted, including guilty pleas.

In Delta County, both State Police and Escanaba police have breathalyzer units in their headquarters and officers who have been trained as operators for the instrument at Michigan State. The unit in Escanaba was installed in July.

Harold Nygren Leaves Service

Harold C. Nygren, deputy regional forester of the U.S. Forest Service's 20 state Eastern Region has retired after 33 years of service.

Nygren holds a bachelor of science degree in forestry which he earned at the New York State College of Forestry in 1936, taking his Forest Service assignment that same year as a foreman in the early CCC program in Lower Michigan.

Throughout the 1930s and '40s, he served on national forests in Minnesota, Mississippi and Missouri, rising in 1952 to the position of assistant forest supervisor of the Ottawa National Forest in Michigan.

Following two years in the Milwaukee regional office, he became supervisor of the Hiawatha National Forest in Michigan and in 1962 was promoted to assistant regional forester at Darby Penn.

In 1965, he became deputy regional forester, transferring in 1966 to take the same position in the expanded Eastern Region headquartered at Milwaukee.

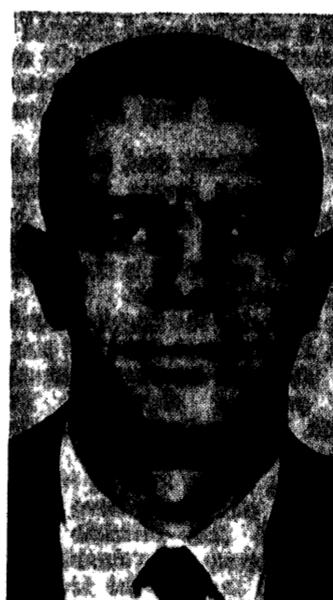

Nygren has been particularly successful in initiating and gaining support for the visitor information program which is one of the most popular features of Eastern Region national forests.

He also played a major role in promoting citizens' meetings where the public is invited to evaluate and discuss proposed Forest Service projects and plans.

Nygren and his wife, Helen, reside at 3415 N. 9th St. They have a daughter, Jean and a son, Tom, who is a forester on a leave of absence from the Forest Service at Yale University.

Troy Drops Study Program

TROY (AP) — Faced with plunging scores in national achievement tests and increased absenteeism, Troy high school has decided to drop a controversial study program that allows students to spend up to 40 percent of the school day as they wish.

Principal Clyde Petersen

Friday presented that decision for consideration of the school board in the Detroit suburb of 20,000.

The program, titled "flexible modular scheduling" was instituted four years ago. Two years later, the then principal Joseph E. Bechard resigned during a controversy over the program between parents and teachers.

Petersen said, based on scores in the National Merit tests, the program has not provided the students with enough academic achievement to keep the same relative position they had when they came to the high school four years ago."

In addition, officials said absenteeism was higher than that of 10 or 11 surrounding high schools.

Implied Consent Impact:

Drunk Driving Arrests Show Sharp Increase

Enforcement of Michigan's year-old implied consent law — largely through use of the breathalyzer — has resulted in a sharp increase in the number of arrests for drunk driving, both on the local and state levels.

The law requires that a person suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol submit to a breath or chemical test to determine the amount of alcohol in his blood or face automatic suspension of his driver's license.

In the Delta County area, drunk driving arrests more than doubled in 1968, jumping to 57 compared to only 25 in 1967, according to information from Escanaba and Gladstone police, State Police of the Gladstone Post and the Delta County Sheriff's Dept.

Escanaba police made 24 arrests last year, compared to only five in 1967. Gladstone police arrests for drunk driving went from four to 10 and State Police reported 23 arrests in 1968 compared to 14 the year before. Sheriff's officers made two arrests in 1967, but none last year.

Statewide, 17,685 persons were arrested last year for drunk driving compared to slightly more than 3,000 in 1967. State Police and the Highway Traffic Safety Center at Michigan State University report.

Scientific Support
The police attribute this to law enforcement officers' increased willingness to make arrests in confidence that they will have scientific support for their previous "subjective" decisions," according to a traffic safety bulletin published in Lansing.

Police in Delta County agreed and also pointed out that the breathalyzer is quick and simple compared to the problems encountered in giving a suspect a chemical blood test.

Of the 17,685 arrested for drunk driving in Michigan last year, 3,924 refused to take the breath test and were subject to automatic suspension of driver's licenses. Out of the total of 13,761 persons tested, 11,367 were proven to have blood-alcohol levels of .15 or greater and were legally drunk.

In Delta County, both State Police and Escanaba police have breathalyzer units in their headquarters and officers who have been trained as operators for the instrument at Michigan State. The unit in Escanaba was installed in July.

Although the implied consent law has made it mandatory for a person suspected of drunk driving to take a blood-alcohol test, police officers pointed out that they still must observe some form of erratic driving on the part of an individual before his vehicle can be stopped.

Gov. William Milliken, Senator Schweigert, Rep. Charles Varnum and others have been invited to attend the grand opening, which will herald the opening of Medicenter to serve the people of the area. The acceptance of patients will begin the following day—June 2, it was announced.

The 60-bed facility is the first of a two-phase project, Willow Creek Developers announced.

The second building phase, an additional 60-bed structure, will be started this summer if the hoped-for schedule of progress can be fulfilled. The plans for the additional wing have been submitted to the Michigan Department of Health for approval.

To be employed are a director of nurses, chief cook, plus secretary, maintenance man, registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, nurses' aides and orderlies.

MARGIE MOLL displays 32-pound bobcat she trapped. This is considered exceptionally heavy for a female cat.

MRS. MOLL scouts riverside for bobcat tracks. Jacket she's wearing is made of Arctic wolf and muskrat pelts, headgear of fox fur. She will trap until stream fishing for trout lures her from trapline in late April.

No Lipstick For This Trapper!

By KENNETH S. LOWE
Of Panax Newspapers

BRUCE CROSSING — When she isn't keeping house for her self and her husband, Margie Moll is likely to be found these winter days running her 15-mile trapline.

Ever since deer season ended, the 52-year-old housewife has been checking her trapline on snowshoes or by snowmobile. Although she sells pelts, Mrs. Moll pursues trapping primarily as a hobby and because she simply can't abide being confined indoors.

It all started quite by accident eight years ago. A grandson who was trapping muskrats injured himself and asked her if she would check his trapline for him. She agreed to do so and happened to notice a set of mink tracks while inspecting the muskrat traps. She asked her husband, Reginald Holl, who now is a retired logger and beer distributor, how a trapper should go about catching a mink.

"She's the best student I've ever had — absolutely," Moll commented.

His wife's trapping harvest last year supports his statement. During the year her traps caught 30 mink, 38 foxes, 21 coyotes, 21 muskrats, five raccoons, eight beavers (the season limit), two otters (also a season limit) and six bobcats.

Mrs. Moll does all of her trapping in the vicinity of this Ontonagon County community. She was born and reared in nearby Ewen.

she refuses to let it interfere with something she enjoys even more — trout fishing. An expert fly fisherman, she abandons her trapline as soon as stream fishing becomes productive.

No Lipstick

"Getting her to leave a trout stream is like trying to get a beagle off a rabbit track," her husband remarked.

Mrs. Moll also enjoys hunting and neglected to set out her coyote traps last October because of the exceptionally fine shooting that developed in the western Upper Peninsula.

Has being a woman handicapped her trapping operations in any manner? "Well," Mrs. Moll replied, "I can't wear lipstick or hand lotion when I'm trapping coyotes. They're so smart they'd never go near a set if I did."

Fisher Signs

She said she sees fisher signs occasionally along her trapline but has never seen a pine marten track. The U. S. Forest Service released fishers in Ontonagon County and other western Upper Peninsula areas several years ago to help control porcupine populations. The state released pine martens in 1956-57 in the Porcupine Mountains State Park in an apparently unsuccessful attempt to re-establish this fur bearer in Michigan.

Mrs. Moll said she has seen timber wolf tracks in Ontonagon County, but only rarely.

Girl Scouts Plan Birthday Activities

All girls, young and old, in Girl Scouting will be celebrating their 57th anniversary starting tomorrow. The week of March 9-15 is Girl Scout Week, commemorating the first troop meeting held March 12, 1912, by the founder of Girl Scouting in the U.S.A., Juliette Gordon Low.

March 9 is Girl Scout Sunday — when the girls and their leaders attend church services in uniform, if possible.

Birthday parties are being held in each of the three neighborhoods during the week. The Central Delta Neighborhood has planned its party for all the troops to attend, while in South and North Delta the parties are smaller and with one of their sister troops.

Here's proof: Samples of feed grains, ground by Gehl and competitive mills, were compared in a "sieve-shaker" analysis (a grinding uniformity test used also by commercial feed manufacturers). In test after test, Gehl samples were the most uniformly ground. And, the more uniform the grind, the better the mix!

In the Mix-All hammermill, 66 thin, alloy-steel hammers cut . . . not pound ingredients on a big grinding surface for faster feed flow with reduced "fines." Come on in for a close-up look at all the Mix-All features, including the swinging auger-feeder.

Foundation Exemption

Rep. Wright Patman (D-Texas) who is often stirring up trouble for our banking system, is now taking on the foundations. The examination is overdue and our hope is that it will be fair and perceptive and that out of it will come recommendations for a proper government regard for these new giants of wealth which have become an influence in our cultural and social processes and, apparently, in government.

Patman thinks that the foundations should shape up to his standards or lose their tax exempt status. He makes a strong case for the suspicion that some of them have been used as a tax dodge. They relieve their organizers' businesses of taxes which their competitors bear.

Typically, Patman doesn't stop there, he goes on to criticize foundations whose charities are not those that he approves of. He cites, for example, his unhappiness over the Richard King Mellon Foundation sending $50,000 to Ireland for the preservation of historic buildings when the United States is having such a heck of a time financing solutions to its urban problems.

He's critical of the Ford Foundation for subsidizing school decentralization experiments in New York City and for endowing study and travel years for young American political leaders. This last one deserves further mention. McGeorge Bundy, formerly White House aide to President Johnson, and now head of the Ford Foundation has become one of the most persuasive spokesmen for the foundations as the head of our biggest one (assets of $3.5 billion).

But he'll have a hard time getting most Americans to agree that the Ford Foundation's grant of $181,000 for travel and study to eight former aides of the late Senator Robert Kennedy comes properly under the Ford Foundation's charter as an "educational" activity. He puts an even worse face on the situation by suggesting that because of the personal tragedy of Bobby's death "we should do something to help."

This is the sort of lightheadedness which seems to characterize quite a bit of foundation thinking. And when the Ford Foundation supports a Cleveland Negro voter registration that helps elect Carl Stokes as the nation's first black big city mayor we can be certain that the politicians are going to take a new look at the political activities of the foundations.

Charles L. McCloskey, president of the National Association of Foundations, says the foundations (3,200 of them) are capable of policing themselves under their code of ethics, but Patman says that some of them use their tax-free status in ways that "reveal the continuing devotion of some of our millionaires to greed, rather than conversion to graciousness." Patman says that he proposes no tax on contributions to foundations, but rather a tax on their investment revenue.

Some of the foundations are nutty and should be so classified and others are performing worthwhile services to the nation, doing some things that government does not do and should not do. The need in this inquiry is for the development of a screening that will separate the angels, the wolves and the squirrels. It's unfortunate that Wright Patman is in charge.

Religiosity

The Post Office will include the words "In the beginning God . . ." on the forthcoming Apollo 8 stamp, which shows a view of the earth as seen from the moon orbit.

The reading from the Genesis account of creation by the crew of Apollo 8 has become closely associated with the flight in the public mind, explained Postmaster General Blount.

Rather than argue over whether the Apollo stamp represents one more crack in the wall of separation of church and state, however, perhaps we ought to ask ourselves whether the practice of public piety does not carry the danger of demeaning genuine religious feeling into mere religiosity.

The official proclamation, engraving or imprinting of pious words and quotations does not make a nation great. Indeed, they are historical examples to support the contention that the farther a people advance along the road to decay, the more punctilious they are about the hollow observance of religious ritualism.

There is no invocation of deity in the Constitution. America got along very well for half a century with the original Pledge of Allegiance before Congress ordered the words "under God" inserted. Interestingly enough, it is the first generation to grow up repeating the phrase every day in school that is causing its elders so much concern in the matters of morals and patriotism.

Wildlife Area

The need to protect and provide living spaces for wildlife will receive a special push when the Michigan United Conservation Clubs launch the state observance of National Wildlife Week, March 16-22. During the week, citizens will be asked to "Provide Habitat — Places Where Wildlife Live," the theme for this year's observance.

State Wildlife Week Chairman James L. Goudreau lays the loss of natural areas that support wildlife populations on "increased pollution, home construction, superhighway expansion, and endless land drainage projects."

"We must have progress," Goudreau said, "but at the same time every effort should be made to manage our land so that it supports our great wildlife resources, as well as providing for human needs."

A special effort will be made during Wildlife Week to encourage habitat improvement projects. These include stream cleanup, tree and shrub planting to provide animal food and shelter, erecting bird nesting boxes, and building conservation exhibits. "The best way to start such a project," Goudreau advised, "is to get to know the food, water, and cover needs of the wildlife in your neighborhood."

National Wildlife Week is a national reminder of the importance of wise use of natural resources.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Come spring, Nader's Raiders will be swooping down on Fort Establishment again. For now, they're lying back in the shadows of Ivy League universities, gathering ammo, new recruits and, hopefully, money.

Seven of them—law students —investigated the Federal Trade Commission last summer. Some one tackled the name Nader's Raiders on them because they were coached by consumer watchdog Ralph Nader.

In hearings conducted by the FTC at the end of the summer, members of the student team accused the agency of political patronage, cronyism and "tired blood." The generation gap yawned as modish young men ticked off complaints and charges that left members of the commission sputtering and angry.

"I want to assure you I don't have tired blood," growled Commissioner A. Everett MacIntyre. And FTC Chairman Paul Rand Dixon called the group's findings "a hysterical, anti-business diatribe."

Their response is understandable. In a report of the summer's findings, the students stated flatly that the FTC, created to protect the consumer, doesn't live up to its potential and that most of its troubles stem from weak leadership.

Raiders reported finding a high-placed FTC official asleep in his office, a newspaper over his face, and upon being awakened could explain his work only in very vague terms. Another could never be contacted in his office despite several attempts through the summer, and his embassassed secretary could not say when he would be back, whether he was on extended leave, vacation or what.

Robert Fellmeth is one of the original seven Raiders. A second-year Harvard Law School student, he thinks there are some bad kinks in American society and this is a good way to straighten them out.

"It seems exciting when you talk about it," he said, "but actually Nader's Raiders is kind of a misnomer. What it is really is a lot of hard work—hours and hours of going over material that is just the most boring, trivial junk. But perhaps the junk is there to cover up something."

Nader himself did not directly supervise the group, although he brought them together, chose the FTC as a target, and coached them in methods of investigation.

"He insisted that all methods be completely above reproach," said John Schulz, Yale Law School graduate and now a law instructor at the University of Southern California. "There was to be none of the traditional methods of investigation, such as getting an employee drunk and plying him with questions, or making promises to staff people such as 'you tell us this and we'll go easy on you!'"

The work last summer was done without pay. This year the students are seeking funds from various sources to pay expenses.

"But even if we don't get grants, I'm coming, no matter what," said Fellmeth. "I think this is the greatest way of effecting change."

"Look at the impact when we came in and started poking around. A lot of people are willing to scream and point their finger and say look how evil it is, but all they have to do is get in there with a shovel and they could do a hell of a lot."

"Like a lot of young people, we were kind of in agony about things. We were all filled with ninth-grade civics, and then you get older and see what's around you and the conflict is terrific."

"What we've found here is an opportunity to actually do something to resolve those conflicts."

Raider ranks will swell this year, he believes. "If I could have expenses paid, I could have half of Harvard Law School in Washington doing investigations this summer," he says.

The occupation of university offices and administrative buildings by militant students poses a most serious threat to the heritage of academic freedom and the ground rules for a democratic society. This new mood of confrontation and physical threat by a minority of student activists must be faced and handled by the moderate leadership of this country before a reaction sets in that will cause political extremism to flourish.

The function of a university is to be the free exchange of ideas and people — uncovered by government, free from political or partisan censorship, and flourishing with creativity and individual expression. This should not only in the classroom and laboratory—but in the library, the art show and the debating society.

When any of these pursuits is intimidated or threatened or suppressed, the essence of the university is destroyed. Unfortunately, there have been times when the church or a bishop or their servants have been guilty of the abuses mentioned. So have state legislatures, rich alumni and confused veteran groups. Presently, the militant student cadres of right and left are the most dangerous challenge to the bright promise of the American community—freedom.

It is one thing to mount a vigorous, incessant attack on the school administration, citing its failures, falsehoods and foolishness on, say, the campus radio station. This type of exchange can be enlightening, embarrassing, obscene or even humorous. Yet when exercised, this is the essence of the university, even in its bleakest hours. On the other hand, to break into the campus radio station, disrupt the program, destroy the equipment and disperse the participants is a strategy that must not be permitted. Such unlawful illegal offenses are not student pranks but an absolute attack on the foundations of a free society.

Incidentally, the title of George's article in the Bridge World was, "Nightmares of the Chicago Tournament." This was the worst one, since it cost him and the late Cmdr. Winfield Ligget the Open Pairs.

Later there would be no way to keep him from discarding his jack of clubs on the king of spades. What do you do now? Just bid six hearts. Your partner should have jumped to two hearts which is what he would have done with solid hearts and a side ace.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding four hearts your partner raises your one spade to two. What do you do now?

Win At Bridge

By JACOBY & SON

The late George Reith was one auction expert who made the transition to contract without losing effectiveness.

Of course, we have a slight bone to pick with him. He organized the first contract tournament in February, 1929, and was so busy getting it on the road that he forgot to get an expert partner! At the last minute he asked young unknown to play with him and thereby started Oswald Jacoby on a bridge career that is still going on some 40 years later. He also carried his young partner through to victory in 1929.

We don't know how old George was in 1929 but Adm. George Reith Jr., USN (Ret.), was a contemporary Navy associate of his father's young partner in both World War II and Korea.

George was one expert who did not mind writing about his own mistakes. We quote directly from one of his 1929 articles:

(1) Get his attention before you speak. Touch him if necessary.

(2) Speak slowly and distinctly and use your lips.

(3) Don't shout. It doesn't help.

(4) Use short sentences.

(5) Include him in the conversation when there is a group.

(6) Be patient and repeat if necessary without show of exasperation. Remember, but for the grace of God, it could have happened to you. — S. O. S.

Thank you for a most informative and useful article, and please forgive the little joke. I couldn't resist it.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you get thousands of letters every day and everybody wants to see his letter in the paper. I know you can't possibly print them all, but I do hope and pray you'll print mine. It's a letter to my dad.

Dear Dad: You're not home yet and it's three hours past dinnertime. I know what happened. You got to drinking with the guys and lost track of the time. It's the same story five nights out of seven. Tomorrow morning you will drag yourself out of bed, complain about a headache and go to church and act holy.

Mom never complains but I know that hurt look in her eyes when you swear and yell at her. She is still very pretty and could make some man a very good wife. So wake up, Dad, or

Miner Patiently Awaits Rescue

LARK, Utah (AP) — Rescuers tunneled and drilled today toward 61-year-old William Jones, trapped in a North Utah mountain since a cave-in a week ago.

Officials said efforts to drill up through 40 feet of rock were still in the preliminary stage, while attempts to tunnel through limestone with hand tools were proceeding slowly.

The first attempt to drill a two-inch pilot hole failed when the drill hit a dead air space and another hole had to be started.

By this morning, the pilot hole had been drilled through about 20 of the 40 feet and was being reamed by a six-inch hole. At least one larger drill would be needed before rescuers could drill the 20-inch diameter hole through which they hope to rescue Jones.

The mine superintendent, Don Willie, when asked today when Jones would be reached, said, "It will be quite some time."

Jones, son-in-law, Ralph Davis, 33, and son, Duwayne, 21, talked to the miner Friday through a pipe by which Jones has received food, water and lights.

"He's joking. He's his old self," Davis said and added Jones was happy to receive a note from Mrs. Jones. The couple has 11 children.

FOUR OF THE estimated thousand deer in the Wiregrass Lake area of Menominee County on the Carney-Nathan road are pictured by the roadside. The deer are feeding on hay brought in by farmers. (Eugene Peterson Photos)

"WHAT'S IT WITH YOU, FELLA?" this deer seems to be asking of the cameraman who stopped to take his picture on Menominee County Road 374 west of Carney, where a huge herd is concentrated.

Wiregrass Swamp Is Deer Capital Of U.P.

One of the great Upper Peninsula late winter shows with an all-deer cast is being staged on Menominee County Road 374 west of Carney.

The great swamp area there on both sides of the road has been deer country since Indian days and observers believe that there are now about 1,000 deer in the area.

Eugene Peterson of Carney, said that "Most of them are as fat as Aunt Jemima, but few have died and a few of the smaller ones are beginning to show up with the puffy faces and the patchy pelts that indicate famine."

Farmers have been hauling hay into the area to feed the deer and many tons have been scattered along the highway. The state has cut cedar in the area and artificial feeding has been so heavy that some of the browse has not been eaten.

The cutting which has drawn out the deer is under a W-M power line that runs from a generating plant at Chalks Hills on the Menominee River to a substation at Powers-Spalding.

The heaviest concentration of deer is reported north of Wiregrass Lake between the Little Cedar River near the Harry Hanchek Farm and the Edward Duca Farm. There are several cedar cutting operations in the area this winter. It has been noted as a deer yard for many years, but is not reported very productive of deer in the hunt because of its dense swamp character.

Scouts Lend Hand To Help Feed Deer

By JIM CHRISTIANSEN and KEVIN SWANEY

The Boy Scouts of Troop 408 have completed a conservation project aimed at helping to prevent the problem of starvation of the deer in our area.

The scouts were transported to a forest area 15 miles south of Escanaba on M-35. From there they proceeded three-quarters of a mile inland by foot or by snowmobiles provided by conservation officials. For five and one half hours, scouts cut down trees to enable deer to get easy access to a good supply of food.

Sights along the hike into the cutting grounds included many well traveled deer trails and various other wildlife signs.

Supervision was provided by committee men from Troop 408 and conservation officials. They also aided in showing scouts how to properly fell large trees which had previously been marked for cutting. The scouts took a short break to prepare lunch, then continued felling trees, working their way toward M-35.

The attitude of the scouts toward this project was shown by their good attendance, number of trees felled and by the fact that they were helping to save starving deer. Many scouts said that they would like to do it again. Some of the scouts participated in this project for advancement in rank.

The trip was climaxed by the hike or ride (if you were lucky enough to get in a snowmobile) back to M-35 where the boy scouts were picked up and transported home.

Nixon Bestows Honor Medals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon bestowed the nation's highest award—the Medal of Honor—today on three Army men who he said "fought for the cause of freedom and peace" in Vietnam.

The presentation was a first for Nixon, and he said it was the highest honor for him thus far as President.

In a colorful East Room ceremony, the President presented the blue-ribboned medals with a handshake to Sgt. I.C. Fred W. Zabitosky, 26, of Trenton, N.J.; S. Sgt. Joe R. Hooper, 29, of Saugus, Calif., and Spec. 5 Clarence E. Sasser, 21, of Rosaron, Tex.

Nixon noted that all three were under 30 and said that there is a tendency to emphasize what is wrong with the younger generation in America sometimes.

But, he said, "These three young men demonstrated to us that we can be very proud of the younger generation. They are magnificent."

Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor read the citations crediting the men with outstanding heroism and performance under fire in January and February 1968.

Among other things, Zabitosky rescued the pilot from a burning helicopter which crashed during a fire fight.

Sasser, a medical aid man, was cited for his treatment and encouragement of wounded men during a battle even after he was wounded in the shoulder and both legs.

Hooper, a squad leader, led an assault on a heavily defended enemy position on a riverbank. The citation said he "singlehandedly stormed three enemy bunkers, destroying them with hand grenades and rifle fire, and shot two enemy soldiers who had attacked and wounded the chaplain."

He also rescued a wounded man under fire and "neutralized the final pocket of enemy resistance by fatally wounding three North Vietnamese officers with rifle fire."

Student Editor Found Guilty

GRAND HAVEN (AP) — James Wasserman, 21, editor of the student newspaper at Grand Valley State College, Friday was found guilty of printing obscene literature.

The circuit court jury, composed of seven men and five women, deliberated 17 minutes before reaching the verdict.

Wasserman, of Muskegon, will be sentenced April 14 by Judge Raymond L. Smith. The maximum sentence possible is one year in jail or a $1,000 fine or both.

He was arrested Dec. 3 for printing obscene material in the student newspaper, the Lanthorn.

Ottawa County Sheriff Bernard Grysens testified Friday that he had received numerous complaints about the smutty language in the paper before Wasserman was arrested.

Defense Attorney Joseph Legatz Jr. of Muskegon, in his opening remarks, had asked that the publication be judged in its entirety and he urged jurors to refrain from concerning themselves only with the Nov. 27 article which contained obscene words.

Wasserman remained free on a $1,000 bond.

Niles Fire

NILES (AP) — A fire which broke out in the kitchen of Thomas' restaurant in Niles today destroyed the $125,000 structure and its contents. Two off-duty Niles firemen were having lunch in the building when the fire erupted, authorities said, and they quickly herded everyone out of the structure. No injuries were reported.

Cut Firebird Price By $72

CHICAGO (AP) — Pontiac Motor Division reshuffled equipment on its Firebird series Friday and cut the price an average of $72.

F. James McDonald, general manager of Pontiac, made the announcement at a press session as a prelude to the opening of the Chicago Auto Show.

McDonald said that several items such as wide oval tires, special roof moldings and instrument panel lamps would be deleted as standard items to effect the price reduction. The deleted items will remain available as extra-cost items.

The Firebird hardtop coupe will carry a manufacturers' retail price tag of $2,759 effective next week and the convertible model will be priced at $2,889.

McDonald predicted Pontiac would top its current sales record of 867,000 units set in the 1968 model year but he backed off from previous claims by the division that it would hit the million unit sales within a short time.

Americans Can't Do Their Work Says John Hannah

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — America must help nations help themselves, "not do their work for them," the director-designate of the Agency for International Development said today.

A few weeks ago, for example, a relatively young and small company with a president not yet 30 horrified the executives of two very large and conservative New York banks with the threat of takeover.

Upon Reluctant but Weakened Companies

Most firms that are potential prey are well aware of it, just as a weak or wounded animal knows that it is emitting telltale signals that soon may be picked up by carnivores.

Mergers

It is much more difficult to spot some of the stalkers, for although they eventually must make themselves known, often they do not do so until they have already acquired a good percentage of their prey's stock.

Stalkers

The stalkers do not always fit a pattern either. The big conglomerate companies are known to be almost always in the market, and therefore they are always suspect. But takeover attempts can come from unlikely management consultants have formed new departments to develop techniques for warding off undesirable suitors.

The B.F. Goodrich Co. provides an illustration. This huge rubber company has been fighting a long and hard battle to avoid being taken over by Northwest Industries Inc., which lists among its holdings in Chippewa County and measures 14 lake trout of the 47 lake trout taken by these fishermen.

Early in the battle Goodrich sought aid from its own stockholders, a conventional technique. Then it went to the courts. And it sought help also from the Interstate Commerce Commission, which regulates railroads.

The stalkers do not always fit a pattern either. The big conglomerate companies are known to be almost always in the market, and therefore they are always suspect. But takeover attempts can come from unlikely maneuver by purchasing a trucker, the Motor Freight Corp., for an announced price of $3 million in Goodrich stock. This could complicate matters.

It might, for instance, mean that Northwest, as a railroad, would face ICC hearings before it could continue with any take-over of what might be construed to be a competitive transportation company. ICC hearings can drag on interminably.

So large is the present wave of mergers, acquisitions and tender offers for stock, that one business consultant recently sent his customers a list of factors that might make them vulnerable to a takeover.

Counter-Tactics

The smaller company zeroed in on one of the banks and was fully prepared to make an offer to the bank's shareholders when it abruptly withdrew. Reports circulated that it suddenly experienced credit problems at other banks.

The smaller company's unexpected problems, incidentally, may have been only part of a high developed set of countermeasures that businesses today are perfecting under the guidance of professional counselors.

Helping corporations to avert takeovers has, in fact, become a business in itself. Several

Counter-Tactics

Hannah made the comments in a speech prepared for the formal inauguration of Glen L. Taggart, a former MSU dean, as president of Utah State University.

Hannah cited a recent report of the International Development Assistance and International Education Task Force, created by the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

The report called for a "fundamental reassessment of the United States' position in international affairs" and said: "America has no mandate to shape the world in its own image, but we do have an obligation to contribute to its betterment."

"Translating this report to foreign lands is one of the major challenges facing our nation today," Hannah said.

Next, the vulnerable company may have been consistently underestimating its income because of conservative accounting practices.

A change in accounting could make these earnings look much better.

A company is vulnerable if it

Conducted by geology professor Richard Ward, the 44-page study concludes colleges must provide commuting students with many new facilities to make them feel less alienated from the academic world.

The result of this research is that off-campus residents tend to have fewer friends and acquaintances on campus, have fewer dates and spend less time studying in groups. Their friends are more likely to be high school acquaintances or neighborhood or church-connected.

Reduce Incidents

To reduce campus incidents,

Ward said, universities must increase effectiveness of education for the commuting student and give him an opportunity to participate in solving the problems at a level of his comtence.

Lack Exchange

The study says this means a lack of "intellectual exchange" and a "deprived education atmosphere," preventing the urban commuter from making the clean break with childhood the resident student makes, even though the commuter may have more adult responsibilities.

To meet the problems of the commuter, the study proposes adding new facilities to encourage and facilitate the commuter's spending more time on campus.

The study suggests department lounges where commuters can relax and talk informally with other students, overnight facilties for students who want to study or work in laboratories at odd hours, additional facilties in the campus areas such as stores, restaurants and services, and branch centers in outlying areas with dial-in access to a central library, lounge and scheduled bus service direct to the university's main campus.

Claims Missile System Could Be Nixon's 'Vietnam'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesman for the New Democratic Coalition warned Friday deployment of an antiballistic missile system could be President Nixon's "Vietnam." Sanford Gottlieb, a coalition steering committee member and executive director of the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, explained Nixon's deployment of the ABM would present him with a crisis similar to that which the Johnson administration faced over the Vietnam war.

Gottlieb and Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., another steering committee member, said the ABM deployment would "spark another spiral in the arms race," divert money urgently needed for domestic social problems and threaten Americans with nuclear accidents.

Launching a national campaign against the ABM, they declared at a news conference a defensive missile system "wouldn't work against a serious nuclear attack" and likely would be outmoded by the time it was established.

They claim there is opposition building among Republicans on Capitol Hill against the ABM concept.

"And there is one indication, too, the administration might come out against it," Conyers declared.

The coalition is a group representative of the McGovern-Kennedy-McCarthy forces which supported "peace platforms" during the 1968 election campaign.

Companies Are Never Safe From Mergers

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Amidst the wild and savage battles for corporate survival that now erupt with regularity, a company seldom feels fully confident that another might not attempt to gobble it up.

Mergers are occurring too often for any company to ignore. Last year there were more than 1,800 major mergers with a valuation of $23 billion. And many of these marriages were forced

Trout Fishing Boom Reported

On Feb. 28, Conservation Officer Willard St. Onge, Trout Lake, and Fisheries Biologist E. J. Trimberger, Newberry, checked 23 fishermen who came off the ice on Lake Superior between Dollar Settlement and Salt Point off Pendills Creek in Chippewa County and measured 14 lake trout of the 47 lake trout taken by these fishermen.

FIVE OF THE FISH were from a yearling plant released in June of 1963 in the Lower Whitefish Bay and averaged 20.4 inches in length. Eight were released in June of 1964 at the same place and were 21.29 inches in length. The last was released in 1964 or 1965 and was 23.1 inches in length. All 47 fish were examined for lamprey scars and none were found.

Possible Cause Of Student Unrest

Study Shows Colleges Ignoring Their Commuters

DETROIT (AP) — American colleges discriminate against students who commute to class, a year-long Wayne State University study has concluded.

The study says the whole setup of American colleges is geared to the full-time resident student, ignoring the commuting student who works and lives at home. And in 1968, more than 50 per cent of all university students in the nation were commuters, the report stated.

Conducted by geology professor Richard Ward, the 44-page study concludes colleges must provide commuting students with many new facilities to make them feel less alienated from the academic world.

One result of this, Ward suggested, might be a reduction in student unrest.

To reduce campus incidents, universities must increase effectiveness of education for the commuting student and give him an opportunity to participate in solving the problems at a level of his competence."

BELOIT, Wis. (AP) — About one hundred students fled two dormitories at Beloit College early today when fires, said by authorities to be set, were discovered in lounge areas on the first floors. No injuries were reported.

Authorities said today's fires were set by kerosene soaked rags placed in paper cups under furniture at Whitney and Porter halls, separate dormitories for men and women.

They said a man seen outside the buildings fled at the approach of firemen and police men.

W. L. Cunnin, head of the college's physical plant, estimated damage at about $5,000.

DAMAGE WAS CAUSED TO THE INFIRMARY kitchen earlier this week when firebombs were tossed into the building.

An investigation is continuing.

Bill To Collect Postal Savings

LANSING (AP) — Michigan could collect an estimated $2 million under legislation being prepared to let the attorney general file claims to funds received by the U.S. Treasury Department from the old Postal Savings System.

Rep. Richard A. Young, D-Dearborn Heights, said he is preparing a "one-shot" bill to seek recovery of the money believed deposited by state residents who cannot be located.

The savings system was established by Congress in 1910, then discontinued in 1966. An estimated $27.5 million still has not been claimed across the nation.

Christmas Seals

LANSING (AP) — Some $50,000 from the sale of Christmas seals has been distributed for research and medical education at the University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

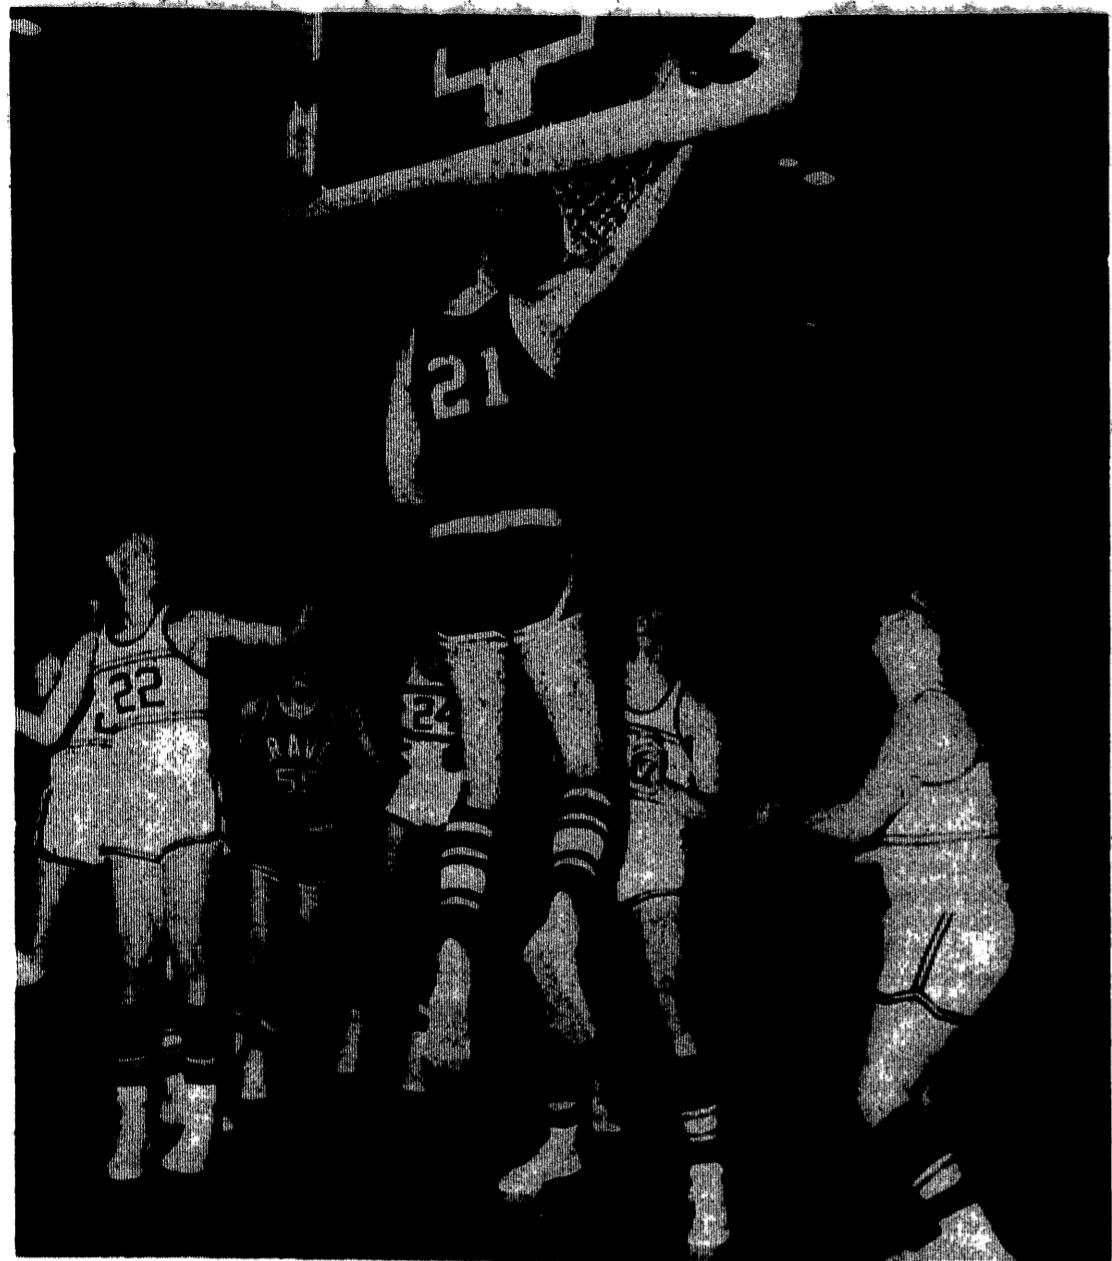

THE STUDY FOUND COMMUTING students at Wayne, 41 per cent of whom work more than 40 hours per week, tend to have tight schedules, often have no place to study and have little contact with other students and professors.

"Practically every urban commuter arranges his schedule to minimize his on-campus time," the study says, citing jobs, family obligations and a desire to avoid rush-hour traffic as the main reasons.

The result of this scheduling problem is that off-campus residents tend to have fewer friends and acquaintances on campus, have fewer dates and spend less time studying in groups. Their friends are more likely to be high school acquaintances or neighborhood or church-connected.

Complete domination is the tal of 26 points in the first best way of describing the half. The only players from Gladstone Braves' 98-51 Manistique who showed any triumph over the Manistique effectiveness at all against the Emeralds in the Class B district tournament final at the first half were Tom Jenerou, Holy Name High gymnasium and Marv Miller, who scored 10 and 8 points, respectively.

Right from the start the Gladstone fast break Braves established supremacy was at its finest during in their quest for a berth in the third period with guards Mark the regional tournament at Northern Michigan University doing Weber and Cliff Young doing most of the scoring. The next week, Gladstone's opponent in the regional will be the winner of the Ironwood-West Iron County game at Ironwood tonight.

John Watson, Gladstone's dominating center, paced the Braves in the first quarter with nine points while his teammates ran up a 13-point lead over the Emeralds at one point during the period.

Gladstone's lead jumped to as much as 31 points in the second quarter as Steve Nelson, the all-time top scorer in Gladstone High School history, ripped the nets for 15 points, giving him 20 of his game to-

The Braves were 39 for 78 from the outside while Manistique could only manage 18 of 67 field goal attempts. The Braves also completely dominated the boards, pulling down 44 rebounds to Manistique's 23.

Weber and Young, Gladstone's "gold dust twins" guards, were outstanding both offensively and defensively throughout the game as they made both the full court press and the fast break work to perfection.

Gladstone enters regional play next week riding the crest of a six-game winning streak and with a 14-4 season record.

Eskymos Nip Blue Devils

SAULT STE. MARIE—The Escanaba Eskymos are the Upper Peninsula's Class A basketball champions for the sixth time in nine years.

Coach Bill Howes' cagers Coach Bill Howes' cagers 62 Friday night to advance to Class A regional competition next Friday at Grand Rapids.

The game was close from the opening tip-off and wasn't settled until senior John Moberg sank a pair of free throws with 12 seconds to play to give the Eskymos a safe three-point lead.

Moberg's two charity tosses came after Escanaba had stalled away almost 40 seconds of the final minute after gaining control of the basketball on a turnover by the Blue Devils. Twice in the final two minutes, Soo also had 24 field goals, but could make only 14 of 18 free throws.

Since Class A competition was instituted in the Upper Peninsula in 1961, Sault Ste. Marie has never won the district title.

The key to the game was beating the half-court press the Blue Devils had used so well in blitzing Marquette Wednesday night, said Howes. The Eskymos shot 47 per free throws by Mike Beck made it 63-60, but Dahlman's fielder made it 63-62. Both teams lost the ball on turnovers before the Escanaba stall setup Moberg's clinching shots.

Tom Kangas, who topped Escanaba scoring with 20 points, gave Escanaba a 61-58 edge with 2:09 to play on a pair of free throws as Soo's Tom Bergeron fouled out.

The Blue Devils, however, closed to 61-60 on free throws by Dennis Dahlman. Two free throws by Mike Beck made 24 of 51 shots. They added the winning points from the free throw line, making 17 of 22 attempts. Soo also had 24 field goals, but could make only 14 of 18 free throws.

Moberg had nine rebounds to lead Escanaba in that department, while Kangas grabbed eight, Beck seven and Gene Timmer six. Timmer started in place of Bob Dahlman as guard and turned in a strong floor game and eight points. Gauthier saw limited action after being ill during the week.

Black Bears Top Engadine, Win District

ENGADINE — Big Bay de Noe used a full-court press to get an early lead Friday night, then hatched it into a 50-39 victory over Engadine to advance into Class D regional play.

The Black Bears will meet the winner of tonight's Detour-Brimley game at St. Ignace next Tuesday.

"All the kids played real well," said Big Bay Coach Dave Pelletier. "We might have scored some more points, but we had the lead and we didn't want to take any chances."

Early in the season, the Black Bears had a more difficult time with Engadine, winning only 41-38.

Friday night, however, Big Bay grabbed the initiative in the first quarter with the full-court press and with Bill Hartman turning in several steals to lead the Black Bears' stretch of 11 points at halftime as Dave Hardwick connected for eight points to spark first half scoring. Until the final two minutes and 30 seconds of the half, Big Bay's defense, sparked by Herb Pomeroy and Hardwick, limited the Eagles to only three field goals.

Engadine whittled on point from the deficit in the third quarter, but Big Bay added to its edge in the final quarter.

STEVE NELSON of Gladstone took an unusual route to the basket for two of his 26 points against Manistique Friday night, laying the ball into the basket from beneath and behind the backboard instead of the usual forward approach. Waiting for a rebound which didn't come are Manistique's Marv Miller (22), Tony Ebli (24), Bill Rubick (50), and Larry Davidson, far right, and Gladstone's Eric Treichel (55). (Daily Press Photo)

Gladstone Rolls Past Manistique

Complete domination is the best way of describing the half. The only players from Gladstone who showed any effectiveness at all against the tough Gladstone defense in the first half were Tom Jenerou and Marv Miller, who scored 10 and 8 points, respectively.

The Gladstone fast break was at its finest during the third period with guards Mark Weber and Cliff Young doing most of the scoring. The Braves' lead jumped to as high as 48 points in the quarter.

Gladstone coach Bill Wood emptied his bench in the fourth quarter while the fans were hollering for 100 points and the reserves came within two points of the magic-mark.

Following Nelson in the scoring column for Gladstone were John Watson and Cliff Young with 18 and 12 points, respectively, to lead ten Gladstone players who scored in the game. Miller and Jenerou were the only Manistique players to hit double figures, tossing in 11 and 10 points.

Gladstone found the Holy Name gym to their liking in both games of the tournament, hitting 53 per cent from the field against Holy Name Wednesday night and shooting at a 50 per cent clip in last night's victory. The Braves were 39 for 78 from the outside while Manistique could only manage 18 of 67 field goal attempts.

The Braves also completely dominated the boards, pulling down 44 rebounds to Manistique's 23. Weber and Young, Gladstone's "gold dust twins" guards, were outstanding both offensively and defensively throughout the game as they made both the full court press and the fast break work to perfection.

Tigers 'Sweet' For Pirates

LAKEVILLE Fla. (AP) — The world champion Detroit Tigers showed the Pittsburgh Pirates Friday how "sweet" they can be when there's nothing at stake.

Through the generosity of Les "Sugar" Cain and Don Pepper, the Tigers gave the Pirates a 6-2 baseball victory in the opening spring exhibition game for both teams.

Detroit outhit the Pirates six to four but Pittsburgh outwalked the Tigers six to four and that proved the difference, along with two significant errors by Pepper.

It was the wild pitching of Cain in the fifth inning that was the biggest problem. He walked four and the Pirates scored four times.

"I think he had a little trouble with the pitching mound, there was a big hole in it," said Tiger Coach Grover Resinger. "Besides, those were mostly young kids out there and this was only the first exhibition game and doesn't mean much."

The Tigers started the game with six veterans and four rookies but before the game was over four other rookies played for both teams.

Detroit outdid the Pirates six to four but Pittsburgh outwalked the Tigers six to four and that proved the difference, along with two significant errors by Pepper.

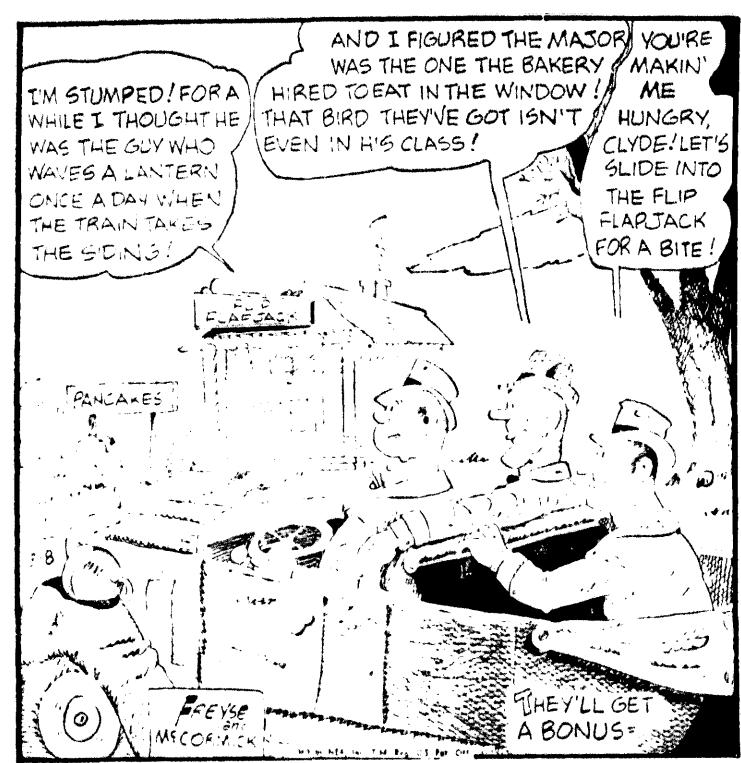

With the game tied 2-2 in the fifth Cain walked the first two batters. Then rookie first baseman Pepper threw wild to third on a bunt by Jose Martinez which allowed one run. After another walk Al Oliver singled home two more runs and then after a fourth walk Elvio Jimenez drove in the final run with a sacrifice fly.

Detroit scored its two runs in the first inning when Pirate left-fielder Willie Stargell dropped a soft fly ball off the bat of Pepper after Mickey Stanley doubled and Dick McAuliffe walked.

But in the third inning it was Pepper's turn to make his first error by dropping a throw from McAuliffe at first on what should have been a simple ground out by Gary Kolb. Two batters later Stargell blasted a ball over the fence in right-field at the 373-foot mark to tie the game.

Finds Vatican Is Hub Of Financial Empire

NEW YORK (AP) — When an American sociologist and economic specialist moved to Rome 12 years ago and settled down with his family in the Piazza Polignano neighborhood, he was surprised to learn that his real landlord was the Vatican.

Gradually, he says, he also found that it owned the water company, gas company and the telephone company supplying his house with utilities.

"It intruded me," says Nino Lo Bello, a one-time University of Kansas faculty member and a veteran European correspondent for U.S. financial publications.

As a result, he has spent much of the last decade digging into the monetary side of the Roman Catholic Church's operating center, and in a new book issued by Trident Press, "The Vatican Empire," he concludes:

Big Business

"The Church is big business." Not only is it "a religious, charitable and educational institution," he says, but also "a nerve center for finance," the "oldest and largest corporation in the world," and the hub of "a tremendous financial empire."

It is "one of the world's largest shareholders," he says.

He also cites other figures putting its Italian stock holdings at $586.6 million.

Construction

In addition, he also details Vatican ownership of various operating firms, most of them in Italy, including that country's largest construction company, which in turn controls or has interest in 50 other companies.

Cash assets, he says, include at least two numbered Swiss bank accounts and $21.8 million in gold ingots with the U.S. Federal Reserve Board.

Lo Bello, himself a Catholic and a native New Yorker, confines his study to commercial holdings of the Vatican itself, and does not include its priceless art treasures, nor properties held separately by the Church's far-flung dioceses, some of them rich, and others grindingly poor.

As for the Pope himself, he gets no salary, and owns virtually nothing personally, giving up any property when he takes office. "Personally, he is a poor man," Lo Bello remarked.

To gather his data, and trace Vatican holdings through various names and groups, and into political affairs, Lo Bello says he had to rely chiefly on secular sources.

Hospital

Admitted to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital on Thursday were Connie Deloria, Beatrice Groll, Shirley Hayden, John Coppeck, Geneva Ruggles, Terry Watson, and Debra Ann Massy.

Joslin was assessed $25 bond on a disorderly charge and $50 bond on an excessive noise traffic ticket issued earlier on Thursday.

Magistrate Magoon set $200 bond for Brown including driving while under the influence of intoxicants, 75; leaving the scene of a property damage accident, $50; disorderly, $25; and $50 for a speeding ticket from January.

Joslin was assessed $25 bond on a disorderly charge and $50 bond on an excessive noise traffic ticket issued earlier on Thursday.

Discharged on Thursday were Frances LeLonde, Anne DuPont, Orville Gonder, Richard Bruseau, Kim Bowman and Audrey Martin and infant.

Six Teams Enter City Grade School Playoffs

Six teams will be participating in the City League grade school basketball playoffs on Thursday, March 13. The playoffs will be held in the Manistique High School main gym beginning at 6:30 p.m.

City Recreation Director Richard Bonifas said that five minute quarters will be used so that the three contests should be completed by 8 p.m.

The playoffs are open only to those boys who competed in the Saturday League sponsored by the City Recreation Department.

West Iron District School Superintendent Carl Nieminen was tour director for the group, which also included other peninsula committee members. Nieminen said that 60 per cent of the total student enrollment of his school district was participating in the program. Based on advance registrations, about 75 per cent of the students will be involved in vocational education projects next year, he added.

The Committee endorsed resolutions on pending technical-vocational education programs after hearing reports from Department of Education representatives Robert Pangman and Arthur Francis.

Next meeting of the Committee will be held May 8 in Manistique.

Church Events

Zion Lutheran Church Luther League will meet in Augustana Hall on Monday, March 10, at 7 p.m.

The study-sermon for the mid-week Lenten Service to be held on Wednesday, Mar. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Augustana Hall will be "The Forgiveness of Sins." Everyone is welcome to attend these informal services held on Wednesday.

The Couples Club will meet for volley ball on Saturday, Mar. 15 at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Rudie Brandstrom are chairmen for the evening and will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Ron Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Arnold.

Briefly Told

Fairview, Central, Hiawatha and Doyle Schools hot-lunch menu for Monday, Mar. 10, will include ham and potato hot dish, buttered corn, home-made cake and orange juice.

State police ticketed Richard Nelson of Germfask and George Carroll of Thompson, no muffler; and Irv Mikus of Nadeau, expired registration plates on Thursday.

Darryl F. Zanuck For Going It Alone

NEW YORK (AP) — Darryl F. Zanuck, who runs a movie empire from a Hotel Plaza suite, paused one day to discuss such matters as restaging the Pearl Harbor attack and how to portray "Portnoy's complaint."

The onetime boy wonder from Wahoo, Neb., has been slowed somewhat by a broken ankle, but he still sets the fastest pace among film companies. He has led 20th Century-Fox through the shoals of bankruptcy and into a period of prosperity. At 66, he shows no inclination to slow down. Nor to share his company with a conglomerate.

"We have no plans whatever to change our corporate setup," he said, commenting on rumors of a takeover by a larger firm. "Our stock has been jumping all over the place, and a hundred people have a hundred ideas as to why. I honestly don't know."

"I've taken the position that I prefer to go it alone, as I've always done. If something beneficial to the stockholders came to us I'd have to pass it along to them. But so far I've had nothing in concrete form to present to anybody."

"We've been approached recently by an extremely limited number of institutions — less than three. The talks have been strictly exploratory, and so far nothing has developed."

Meanwhile he continues directing the worldwide operations of 20th Century-Fox, in concert with son Richard who is in charge of the Hollywood studio. Their biggest operation at the moment is the Pearl Harbor epic, "Tora! Tora! Tora!"

"There are two second units working magnificently, one in Hawaii and one in northern Japan," said Zanuck.

Zanuck said the film has been budgeted at $19 million and would probably cost "$20 million or over."

Replace Supervisors Serving Local Boards

LANSING (AP) — The House Friday gave cities permission to replace county supervisors who serve on local boards, but balked at permitting teen-agers to seek confidential treatment of venereal diseases.

By unanimous vote, the lower chamber sent to the governor a bill permitting cities to replace county supervisors who also have seats on local boards.

The bill was aimed largely at relieving supervisors from serving on tax review boards. Backers of the proposal pointed out that supervisors should be excused from duty on local boards because of expanded duties of county boards of supervisors.

Debate on a measure encouraging teen-agers to seek secret treatment for venereal disease lasted nearly an hour before the bill was advanced to third reading.

Report To Parents

The bill would allow teen-agers to consult a physician about treatment without requiring notification of parents, guardian or spouse.

Doctors now are required to forward venereal disease reports to public health officials who interview the patient to learn the name of the partner. Parents also are notified, authorities said.

Under terms of the bill, a patient's physician would be permitted to decide whether parents or other immediate relatives should be notified.

Objections to that feature came both from apparent opponents and supporters.

Rep. E.D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, said he thought passage would suggest "we could handle marijuana and abortions the same way" and would tend to "destroy the family."

Clean-Up

Rep. Edward E. Mahalak, D-Romulus, said the bill would provide for the "clean-up" of specific cases but not of what he called "the basic social problem."

Rep. Raymond J. Smit, D-An Arbor, meanwhile, urged revision to specifically prohibit doctors from informing parents if asked by their young patients.

In other action, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill following courts to hear suits from persons seeking permission to enter a neighbor's property to make repairs or improve his own dwelling. A neighbor who denied entry would be reimbursed for damage involved and the court could order postage of bond.

Nority Forms

Approved for final action was a bill to increase indemnity payments to farmers for cattle destroyed because of tuberculosis or Bang's disease. Maximum payment for purebred animals destroyed would be $150 for tubercular cattle and $100 for those suffering from Bang's disease.

Also passed and sent to the Senate were bills to:

—Standardize forms used for notarizing statements and documents.

—Restrict evidence given in court under the so-called "dead man statute," ruling out testimony about a deceased person's affairs by his heirs, attorney or business associates, unless necessitated by other, material evidence.

Manistique Public Safety Officers, who preferred the complaints, said that a car driven by Brown struck a parked station wagon in the 400 block of Range St. at 8:50 Thursday night, owned by Melvin Robert Sellman, 710 Arbutus Ave.

Witnesses to the accident followed the Brown automobile to a motel on Garden Ave., notified Public Safety officers, and the duo were arrested and lodged overnight in the county jail.

Magistrate Magoon set $200 bond for Brown including driving while under the influence of intoxicants, 75; leaving the scene of a property damage accident, $50; disorderly, $25; and $50 for a speeding ticket from January.

Joslin was assessed $25 bond on a disorderly charge and $50 bond on an excessive noise traffic ticket issued earlier on Thursday.

Finds Vatican Is Hub Of Financial Empire

NEW YORK (AP) — When an American sociologist and economic specialist moved to Rome 12 years ago and settled down with his family in the Piazza Bologna neighborhood, he was surprised to learn that his real landlord was the Vatican.

Gradually, he says, he also found that it owned the water company, gas company and the telephone company supplying his house with utilities.

"It intrigued me," says Nino Lo Bello, a one-time University of Kansas faculty member and a veteran European correspondent for U.S. financial publications.

As a result, he has spent much of the last decade digging into the monetary side of the Roman Catholic Church's operating center, and in a new book issued by Trident Press, "The Vatican Empire," he concludes:

Big Business

"The Church is big business." Not only is it "a religious, charitable and educational institution," he says, but also "a nerve center for finance," the "oldest and largest corporation in the world," and the hub of a tremendous financial empire."

However, his findings offer a hefty slice of the picture, including an estimate that the Vatican owns $5.6 billion in corporate stock on exchanges around the world, counting securities held through interlocking ownerships.

It is "one of the world's largest shareholders," he says.

He also cites other figures putting its Italian stock holdings at $586.6 million.

The full extent of those holdings has long remained a question mark, both among Church members as well as others, since the Vatican has never given any public accounting of its financial affairs.

It is "the only sovereign state that never publishes a budget," Lo Bello says. Most Catholic dioceses follow a similar policy, he notes, although demands that financial records be made public have arisen in some places.

Worth Unknown

"Nobody really knows," he said in an interview. "Its holdings are so vast, complex and intertwined with combinations and front corporations that nobody can dig through the maze. It's purposely kept that way."

However, his findings offer a hefty slice of the picture, including an estimate that the Vatican owns $5.6 billion in corporate stock on exchanges around the world, counting securities held through interlocking ownerships.

It is "one of the world's largest shareholders," he says.

He also cites other figures putting its Italian stock holdings at $586.6 million.

Construction

In addition, he also details Vatican ownership of various operating firms, most of them in Italy, including that country's largest construction company, which in turn controls or has interest in 50 other companies.

Cash assets, he says, include at least two numbered Swiss bank accounts and $21.8 million in gold ingots with the U.S. Federal Reserve Board.

Lo Bello, himself a Catholic and a native New Yorker, confines his study to commercial holdings of the Vatican itself, and does not include its priceless art treasures, nor properties held separately by the Church's far-flung dioceses, some of them rich, and others grindingly poor.

As for the Pope himself, he gets no salary, and owns virtually nothing personally, giving up any property when he takes office. "Personally, he is a poor man," Lo Bello remarked.

To gather his data, and trace Vatican holdings through various names and groups, and into political affairs, Lo Bello says he had to rely chiefly on secular sources.

Replace Supervisors Serving Local Boards

LANSING (AP) — The House Friday gave cities permission to replace county supervisors who serve on local boards, but balked at permitting teen-agers to seek confidential treatment of venereal diseases.

By unanimous vote, the lower chamber sent to the governor a bill permitting cities to replace county supervisors who also have seats on local boards.

The bill was aimed largely at relieving supervisors from serving on tax review boards. Backers of the proposal pointed out that supervisors should be excused from duty on local boards because of expanded duties of county boards of supervisors.

Objections to that feature came both from apparent opponents and supporters.

Rep. E.D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, said he thought passage would suggest "we could handle marijuana and abortions the same way" and would tend to "destroy the family."

Report To Parents

The bill would allow teen-agers to consult a physician about treatment without requiring notification of parents, guardian or spouse.

Doctors now are required to report venereal disease reports to public health officials who interview the patient to learn the name of the partner. Parents also are notified, authorities said.

Under terms of the bill, a patient's physician would be permitted to decide whether parents or other immediate relatives should be notified.

Objections to that feature came both from apparent opponents and supporters.

Rep. Raymond J. Smit, D-Arn Arbor, meanwhile, urged revision to specifically prohibit doctors from informing parents what is asked by their young patients.

In other action, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill following courts to hear suits from persons seeking permission to enter a neighbor's property to make repairs or improve his own dwelling. GLADSTONE Lions Told Of UPCAP's Role

David Ferrand, industrial developer of UPCAP, was the guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Gladstone Lions Club Thursday evening at the Yacht Club.

Ferrand told the group that UPCAP has assisted 33 industries in the Upper Peninsula since its organization in 1962 and that all 33 are fulfilling their loan obligations.

He said the organization was started because of the economic plight in the U. P. and that a survey was made of all industries in the area and recommendation made to hire a director and assistant director to aid in the growth of the U. P.

He said 14 of the 15 counties are represented in UPCAP.

According to Ferrand, the success of the project is largely due to the excellent cooperation of the people.

Dr. George Kelly discussed the proposed armory building for Gladstone and displayed the blueprints. He recommended that interested club members write their senators and congressmen indicating their approval of the project.

Ellis Movalson reported on the recent meeting of the executive officers of Central PTA who are spearheading a Safety program with emphasis on bicycle safety. He said the Lions Club would sponsor a safety check of all children's bicycles in the near future.

Policeman Wins Full Pardon

NEW PORT RICHEY, Fla. (AP) — Patrolman Edward D. Melden wheeled his police cruiser about this coastal city confidently today, smiling and talking about the pardon that wiped out his prison record.

"When I was a little boy I wanted to be a policeman," Melden said. "But when I went to prison I thought it would never become a reality."

The Bay City, Mich., native had his own masonry contracting business when he was offered a job on the police force.

"I was asked to take the job three times. I declined twice due to my past. Chief (Chekie) Barga said it would work out all right. I was hesitant. I thought somebody might get hold of this."

But Michigan Gov. William Milliken wiped the slate clean Friday with a full pardon intended to "afford relief from unjust hardship and discrimination which often results from the stigma of conviction."

"It started over a car race. I had a pretty hot car. This boy stole this other car. I didn't know the car was stolen at the time. The car caught fire and we just left it. They put all the blame on me because I was the oldest," said Melden, then 18.

Rights Group Probes Ferris

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission announced Friday it will investigate complaints of racial discrimination over incidents this year at Ferris State College.

One white student alleged he was suspended March 1 for an infraction of college rules because of his close association with Negro students.

A black student alleged discrimination against him by college officials occurring March 2, in seeking a job.

Another black student complained he had been harassed on the job, beginning Jan. 27 and continuing.

The parents of three black students alleged they were not informed by college authorities of the arrest of their children, and that this failure to do so was based on race.

Rights Group Probes Ferris

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Civil Rights Commission announced Friday it will investigate complaints of racial discrimination over incidents this year at Ferris State College.

One white student alleged he was suspended March 1 for infraction of college rules because of his close association with Negro students.

A black student alleged discrimination against him by college officials occurring March 2, in seeking a job.

Another black student complained he had been harassed on the job, beginning Jan. 27 and continuing.

The parents of three black students alleged they were not informed by college authorities of the arrest of their children, and that this failure to do so was based on race.

According to a survey by the Pittsburgh Corning Corp., manufacturers of solid glass bricks, the New York City school system paid $1,013,560 to various manufacturers to replace 202,712 broken windows during 1968.
